

ASCA vs AKC Obedience Rule Differences as of June 2020

Introduction

This document is not in any way intended to replace the ASCA Obedience Rules and Regulations. For actual rules and exact wording, please refer to the ASCA Obedience Rules and Regulations. Rather, this document is meant only as a brief guide to point out the more important, significant differences between ASCA and AKC obedience rules, for those judging and / or competing in both registries.

This version compares the ASCA Obedience Rules and Regulations dated June 1, 2020 with the AKC Obedience Regulations dated May 1, 2020.

Three (3) levels of difference between the two registries were denoted in the last column of the tables:

Minor	slight differences between ASCA and AKC
Major	major differences between ASCA and AKC
Radically differ	complete departures between ASCA and AKC and / or only offered in either one or the other program

A summary of the main Radical Differences and Major differences affecting judging are shown on the following 2 pages, followed by all changes arranged by ASCA rulebook Chapter / Section.

ASCA vs AKC Obedience Rule Differences as of June 2020

Summary of Radical Differences involving Judging

Exercise/ Class	ASCA Ch./Sec.	AKC Ch./Sec.	ASCA rule	AKC rule	Level of Difference
Novice Groups	3.12	Ch. 3 Sec. 14	Group exercises may be held either before or after individual exercises. If the Premium fails to state how group exercises will be held, they will follow the individual exercises.	Group exercises will be judged after each section	Radically differ ASCA groups may occur first
Novice Groups	3.12	Ch. 3 Sec. 13	No more than 7 dogs in a group are lined up with a 6’ distance between dogs along the edge of one side of the ring.	All novice dogs are lined up along the center axis of the ring with half facing in one direction, the other half, situated back to back, facing the opposite direction.	Radically differ These are different arrangements.
ODX	4.1, 4.3, 4.8		ASCA offers 2 alternate Open-level titles: CDX and ODX . A dog may be entered in ONLY one of these per trial. Clubs must offer both CDX and ODX classes at all sanctioned trials. Dogs can progress from either class to a regular UD.		Radically differ AKC doesn’t have ODX
Broad Jump	4.6.8	Ch. 4 Sec. 13	Judge will ask handler what method he/she will use. The handler will respond with either “ at the jump ” or “ beyond the jump ”. The handler using “beyond the jump” will leave dog, continue about ten (10) feet beyond the end of the last hurdle, standing two (2) feet from the line of the jump and facing the same direction as in the “at the jump” method. After calling dog, handler will not pivot but will remain motionless. The dog comes to front performing a 90 degree turn .	AKC only has the “at the jump” option.	Radically differ AKC does not offer ‘beyond the jump’ option
BN Sit Stay	8.12	Ch. 16 Sec. 12	Handler walks a T-pattern (either left or right turns, as indicated by judge) while dog does a Sit Stay	Handler walks around the ring while dog does a Sit Stay.	Radically differ

ASCA vs AKC Obedience Rule Differences as of June 2020

Alternative Titling classes	4.1	Ch. 11-15	ASCA's Open ODX, allows handlers a different Open option that does not require the group stays. It is a different route to UD classes rather than an entire alternative path. After the UD title, the dog who has done the ODX can go on to do the UDX-O option and be eligible for High Combined.	AKC offers Preferred Novice, Open, Utility, UDX, and OTCH alternative titles.	Radically differ ASCA doesn't have the Preferred options, and instead offers an alternative route.
Other Optional Titling classes	Ch. 8-10	Ch. 17-19	ASCA offers Beginner Novice, Grad Novice, and Versatility optional titles.	AKC offers Grad Novice, Graf Open, and Versatility optional titles.	Radically differ ; ASCA doesn't have an Grad Open Optional title
Bitch in Season	1.13		BIS are allowed at Nationals. Clubs can elect to allow BIS to participate; premiums must state whether or not BIS will be allowed.	BIS are not allowed	Radically differ BIS are not allowed in any AKC Obedience event.
Alternative Titling classes		Ch. 11-15	ASCA does not offer alternative titles, rather an alternative track through Open and UDX. CDX-O and UDX-O are the titles.	AKC offers Preferred Novice, Open, Utility, UDX, and OTCH alternative titles.	Radically differ ASCA doesn't have and alternative title sequence.
Other Optional Titling classes		Ch. 17-19	ASCA offers Beginner Novice, Graduate Novice, and Versatility.	AKC offers Grad Open.	Radically differ ASCA doesn't have Grad Open
